That government will suffer from bribery and high taxes, which lacks a Fundry as a legislative body with a veto, where every seat is auctioned off for a one year term.

A Fundry deflects financial influence by offering a more efficient avenue of power, thus leaving the other branches relatively free to fulfill their purposes. A briber has to bribe all parties, hope his mark is competent and stays bought, and hope to pass review in statute courts and the court of public opinion. Bidding on a seat in the Fundry has none of these problems.
